

Wen Parker Logistics' Los Angeles Office

Wen-Parker Logistics (WPL), a global freight forwarder and supply chain solutions leader, is very excited to announce the move into an expanded facility in the Los Angeles area. This news comes less than a month after Wen-Parker opened a brand-new sales office in the Dallas area.

“We have seen exponential growth in several key Midwest and Western markets lately and the move into Dallas and the new Los Angeles facility is indicative of that growth,” states Brady Borycki, Executive President of Global Business Development at WPL.

The new increased office and warehousing space at the Western Avenue facility will be used to accommodate the steady demand for Wen-Parker’s expanded suite of logistics services and increasing number of vertical markets.
